

Engaging with Mary Mattingly's Open Ocean: Writing Prompt

Mary Mattingly writes, "these ruins left behind by ambitious explorers make me crave its opposite: ecological and economic sustainability". Look for messages of hope in the thoughts and reflections left by museum goers in the final room. What do you see?

How can we find hope in sustainability?